

BioBlitz

You're invited to participate in a BioBlitz throughout the months of April, May, and June. This is a citizen science effort to record as many species as possible in an area. Use the iNaturalist platform, a website and app, to collect and record information about your local plants and wildlife. Do your BioBlitz in the Teaching Garden to get entered into a weekly prize drawing! Bring a phone or camera to capture your observations and stop by the library for instructions.

Giveaways

Wildflower seed packets will be available at all events while supplies last.

The library will also be providing free take-and-make crafts and projects through the months of April, May, and June! Stop by the front desk anytime during these months to ask for a #PlantWildflowers take-and-make kit.

About the Program

All #PlantWildflowers events will be held outdoors at the Winters Community Library Teaching Garden, located at 708 Railroad Avenue in Winters, CA.

The Teaching Garden was created in 2019 by the Yolo County UCCE Davis Master Gardener Volunteers and is sponsored by the Winters Friends of the Library. Community members of all ages can learn about native and drought tolerant plants and gardening, observe pollinators and beneficial insects, and enjoy the beauty of the natural world in this living classroom.
